WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 1.

ROSENZWEIG'S DAUGHTER'S IMPRECATION. -On Saturday the jury in the case of Jacob Rosenzweig, accused of the murder of Allice Bowlsby, found a verdiet of guilty, and Recorder Hackett sentenced the prisoner to seven years in Sing Sing. Mrs. Rosenzweig and her daughter, Rosa, were admitted into the box to bid the prisoner farewell. Mrs. Rosenzweig eried bitterly, exclaiming, "Oh, how can I bear this?" The violent rage of Rosa, who is a slightly-built girl of fourteen, was appalling.— Shricking hysterically, she knelt upon the floor of the box, and cried out:

"Oh, may my God curse every one who has gone against you, father. May their flesh rot from their bones; may their lives wither up; may they die rotten. Oh, father, though I die for it, I'll have all their lives.

She arose, threw her arms around her father's neck, and clung to him convulsively. Rosenz-weig's face showed but little signs of feeling. The father and daughter were separated, and the former was taken below. When he appeared outside, the crowd hooted and hissed. The prisoner was placed in the van, which at once drove off.

THE AUTOGRAPH EDITION of the complete quality; prices low, at works of Charles Summer, now in course of publication by Lee & Shepard, will be one of the curiosities of recent literature. It is limited to one thousand copies, and the list of subscribers is itself a valuable document on account of the large number of autographs of distinguished men it contains. The names of the one thousand subscribers will be appended to the last volume as a testimonial to the author. For the original autograph list of sub-scribers the agent has been offered one thousand dollars. After the publication of the "Autograph Edition," and edition in the same style will be issued for the public at large, the demand for which is likely to exceed that for any similar work published in this country.
